Lundborg tells the story of his ancestors, Swedish immigrants, who settled near present day Sunburg, Minnesota, in the summer of 1861. They were an extended family of 21, including Lundborg's great great grandparents. The family was pursuing their dream of a new beginning a new country with abundant farm land.

Less than a year later, the family was swept up in the US/Dakota Wars. Lundborg tells the story of how this conflict changed his family, their courage and fortitude as they moved on and began anew.

Paul was raised in Milan, Minnesota and is a retired Lutheran pastor who served churches for 37 years. His wife Rose Ann, has Minnesota roots in both Greenbush and Montevideo and has a sister living in Mora.

Lundborg will speak about his book, receive questions, autograph and sell books at the program.
