June

Birding Bonanza Weekend

June 6-8, 2014

The rich biological diversity of Pine County and the surrounding area provide a bonanza of birding opportunities for experienced birders and those just getting started. The Audubon Center of the North Woods is located in a unique transition zone where the eastern deciduous forest meets the northern conifer forest, and where pockets of the western prairie can be found. The terrestrial diversity is matched by the aquatic plethora of rivers, lakes, bogs and marshes. This first-class weekend birding festival gives participants a chance to visit a wide variety of habitats that support myriad bird species.

With field trips led by seasoned guides, engaging on-site workshops, bird banding sessions, a live raptor presentation, renowned keynote speakers, delicious homemade meals and comfortable lodging, this festival is birding at its best. We invite you to join us for a fun and memorable weekend.

Lodging, meals, and all programming in the all-inclusive weekend fee. All-inclusive weekend package rates $245-$295. Commuter rates also available.
